What's in a Name?

When referring to the university, please use "Cal Poly" only. We are NOT Cal Poly SLO or Cal Poly San Luis Obispo or Cal State Poly or any other derivative -- just Cal Poly. No hyphen. The NCAA agreed to delete "SLO" and "San Luis Obispo" in 1994 and has used just Cal Poly in all statistics, releases and record books since then.

Health a Big Concern for Mustangs in 2009

Armed with five returning position starters, seven pitchers and three more players who missed the 2008 season due to injury, Cal Poly seeks to return to its winning ways in the 2009 baseball season.

Cal Poly will open the 2009 campaign against 2003 national champion Rice with 18 returning lettermen, a dozen newcomers and four other players who were redshirts, including pitchers Matt Leonard and Frankie Reed along with infielder Adam Buschini, all of whom sat out the 2008 season with elbow injuries.

"We're still trying to battle through some injuries that have existed since the 2007 campaign," said seventh-year Mustang head coach Larry Lee. "If we can get everybody back healthy on the field, we have a chance to be a real solid baseball team in a lot of different facets."

Among the holes to fill are four positions vacated by players who were drafted and signed last June by Major League clubs. Third baseman Brent Morel (White Sox) and outfielder Logan Schafer (Brewers) were third-round selections while six other Mustangs were drafted on the second day.

Pitchers Derrick Saito and Brian Grening signed, but the other four -- pitchers Kevin Castner, Jared Eskew and DJ Mauldin along with outfielder/designated hitter Luke Yoder -- are back with the Mustangs for 2009.

Luke Yoder hit .345 as a sophomore a year ago with 13 doubles, eight home runs and 33 RBIs. He was drafted by the Minnesota Twins in the 33rd round, but elected to return to Cal Poly for the 2009 campaign.

Eskew, a southpaw, and Mauldin and Steven Fischback, both right-handers, form a strong nucleus of returning pitchers.

Mauldin, used primarily in relief a year ago, posted a 5-5 mark and 4.08 ERA with four saves while Eskew, who joined the starting rotation midway through the 2008 season, was 5-4 with a 4.11 ERA. Fischback, the Friday night starter in 2008, compiled a 5-4 mark and 4.55 ERA.

Righty Eric Massingham, who started 13 games last spring, was 2-5 with a 5.86 ERA but could be the team's closer next spring, battling Castner for the job. Castner, 1-2 with a 5.46 ERA and one save a year ago, is recovering from offseason elbow surgery to remove bone spurs.

Leonard, another left-hander, was 3-5 with a 5.85 ERA during his freshman season in 2007.

Filling out a strong group vying for three starting nods on the weekends is freshman right-hander Mason Radeke from Santa Barbara High School.

Topping the candidates of middle relievers out of the bullpen are returnees Mark DeVincenzi and Buster Mueller, both right-handers, along with Reed, a southpaw and another pitcher who underwent elbow surgery last spring.

Yoder, who hit .345 with eight home runs and 33 RBIs, primarily as Cal Poly's designated hitter a year ago, heads the list of returning position starters and likely will start in left field in 2009.

Junior Adam Melker, a .314 hitter in 2008, moves from left field to right while senior Ryan Lee, a .357 hitter with a team-leading 13 stolen bases, moves from right to center to replace Schafer.

Other candidates in the outfield are senior Phil Ortez and sophomores DJ Gentile and Ricky Rossman. Gentile leads the group as far as a potential designated hitter.

Buschini, a .294 hitter in 2007 before his elbow injury sidelined him for the entire 2008 season, will move from first base to third, replacing Morel.

That leaves first base to junior Wes Dorrell, a left-handed hitter with a .304 average, five home runs and 54 RBIs in 2008. Dorrell also was used as a catcher and designated hitter a year ago.

Kyle Smith returns for his junior season at shortstop, though he is still recovering from an offseason wrist operation. Smith hit .250 with nine doubles, a pair of home runs and 27 RBIs despite missing 11 games due to the injury.

Second base is open with the graduation of Pat Pezet, but freshman Matt Jensen from Clovis East High School has looked strong in early practice sessions and is the leading candidate.

Another returning infielder is sophomore J.J. Thompson, who hit .211 with four doubles, two home runs and 11 RBIs in 34 games a year ago.

Catcher Josh Thomas completed his eligibility a year ago and the backstop position has four candidates, led by junior Ross Brayton, a transfer from Modesto College, and freshman Jordan Hadlock from Douglas High School in Gardnerville, NV.

Also in the mix are Dorrell and returnee Justin Hensley, who played 28 games a year ago and finished with a .162 average.

"If we stay healthy, we could be solid offensively and defensively," said Lee, 186-154-2 in his previous six seasons at the helm of the Mustang program after 16 seasons as head coach at nearby Cuesta College.

"Our pitching is strong at the top, but we will need more quality out of our bullpen in order to be successful," Lee added.

Cal Poly has had 13 players selected in the first 10 rounds of the last five drafts (2004-08) and a total of 21 players drafted overall. Three other Mustangs signed free-agent contracts with Major League organizations and three more signed deals with independent league teams.

A year ago, Cal Poly went into a 2-10 slide after a 7-7 start and never fully recovered. The Mustangs managed to climb within one win of the .500 mark with a stretch of 13 wins in 19 games, but lost nine of 10 after sweeping UNLV in early May and finished 24-32, the exact opposite of the program's 2007 mark.

Cal Poly was 2-9 in the 11 games without Smith in the lineup, including a 1-5 start in the Big West.

"Not having Smith in there to solidify our defense hurt us," said Lee. "We didn't live up to our expectations defensively and the absence of Smith resulted in a noticeable dropoff on defense."

Despite having six hitters finishing above the .300 mark a year ago en route to a .298 team batting average, Cal Poly hit just .283 in Big West games en route to an 8-16 mark, tied for seventh place with Cal State Northridge.

Three Mustang pitchers earned five victories each -- Mauldin, Fischback and Eskew -- well behind the 11 wins by Thomas Eager in 2007 and 12 by Garrett Olson in 2005.

"We improved noticeably on the pitching end in the last third of the season, getting quality innings from Fischback, Mauldin, Eskew and Grening," said Lee, "but we failed to put all facets of the game together at the same time for any length of time."

Cal Poly's longest winning streak of the 2008 season was just four games (accomplished twice) and Mustang pitchers did not produce a shutout in a season for the first time since moving to Division I in 1995.

Cal Poly had the lead in 24 of the 32 losses but the pitching staff could not hold onto them. In addition, the Mustangs scored in 172 innings this season, only to give up runs to the opposition in the next half-inning 66 times (40 percent).

Eleven of the Mustangs' opponents in 2008 qualified for the NCAA regionals. Cal Poly was 12-17 against those schools, including 3-2 against Fresno State and 2-1 against both Alabama and UC Davis.

This year's schedule includes 2003 national champion Rice (Feb. 20-22) and four-time College World Series champion Cal State Fullerton (May 8-10, both three-game series to be played in Baggett Stadium).

Cal Poly also plays five games against Pac-10 schools -- a three-game series at Cal (March 13-15) and a pair of single games against USC (March 31 at Baggett Stadium and May 5 at Dedeaux Field).

The two games against the Trojans are among 13 midweek games the Mustangs will play this season.

Cal Poly's other three-game series at home will be against Sacramento State, Cal State Northridge, UC Davis, San Francisco and UC Riverside

The Mustangs open Big West play at UC Irvine (March 27-29) and wrap up the 2009 season at home against UC Riverside (May 22-24).

Steven Fischback, Cal Poly's Sunday starter as a sophomore, may move to the Friday night slot in 2009 after posting a 5-4 record and 4.55 ERA.
